Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1, 5-7, 9, 11-13, 20, 25, and 26 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Salzman (4186500) in view of Marxer (4723364).

Salzman shows a shoe comprising a ground contacting layer (11) which is molded and forms arc shaped stops at the toe and heel portions in "recesses" of an intermediate layer (30) which covers "the entire" ground contacting surface, and a comfort layer (50) substantially as claimed except for the exact materials for the comfort layer. Marxer states that the use of synthetic foam for a lining/comfort layer is well known and conventional (see column 3 lines 23-26). It would have been obvious to make the comfort/lining layer from sythetic foam, i.e. a material having elastic shock absorption properties, as is conventional and stated by Marxer in the shoe of Salzman to make the shoe comfortable.

In reference to claims 5-7 and 9, Salzman as modified above discloses the claimed invention except for the exact materials. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill int he art at the time the invention was made to use the materials claimed, since it has been held to be within the general skill of a worker in the art to select a known material on the basis of its suitability for the intended use as a matter of obvious design choice. In re Leshin, 125 USPQ 416.

In reference to claims 11-13, the specific method of attaching the layers appears to have no importance as Salzman states "the liner is secured in any conventional manner" (column 3 lines 58-59) or is silent as to how the layers are connected. It would have been obvious to use any known method of attachment including adhesive bonding, duplicate molding, and ultrasound. The presence of claims 11-13 is evidence that the invention is indifferent, i.e. there is no criticality, to the specific one of the conventional methods.

Allowable Subject Matter

3. Claims 2-4, 8, 10, 14-16, 21, 23, and 27 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Response to Arguments

4. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1, 5-7, 9, 11-13, 20, 25, and 26 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Response to Amendment

5. The Declaration under 37 CFR 1.132 filed 10/11/05 is insufficient to overcome the rejection of claims based upon Salzman and Marxer as set forth in the last Office action because: However, more than the mere fact of copying is necessary to make that action significant because copying may be attributable to other factors such as a lack of concern for patent property or contempt for the patentees ability to enforce the patent. Cable Electric Products, Inc. v. Genmark, Inc., 770 F.2d 1015, 226 USPQ 881(Fed. Cir. 1985). Evidence of copying was persuasive of nonobviousness when an alleged infringer tried for a substantial length of time to design a product or process similar to the claimed invention, but failed and then copied the claimed invention instead. Dow Chem. Co. v. American Cyanamid Co., 837 F.2d 469, 2 USPQ2d 1350 (Fed. Cir. 1987). Alleged copying is not persuasive of nonobviousness when the copy is not identical to the claimed product, and the other manufacturer had not expended great effort to develop its own solution. Pentec, Inc. v. Graphic Controls Corp., 776 F.2d 309, 227 USPQ 766 (Fed. Cir. 1985). See also Vandenberg v. Dairy Equipment Co., 740 F.2d 1560, 1568, 224 USPQ 195, 199 (Fed. Cir. 1984) (evidence of copying not found persuasive of nonobviousness) and Panduit Corp. v. Dennison Manufacturing Co., 774 F.2d 1082, 1098-99, 227 USPQ 337, 348, 349 (Fed. Cir. 1985), vacated on other grounds, 475 U.S. 809, 229 USPQ 478 (1986), on remand, 810 F.2d 1561, 1 USPQ2d 1593 (Fed. Cir. 1987) (evidence of copying found persuasive of nonobviousness where admitted infringer failed to satisfactorily produce a solution after 10 years of effort and expense). There is no evidence that the copying satisfied the above requirements. Also the Declaration does not address the current rejection based on Salzman.
